

L'Aventure Jean-Michel Cousteau and Daku Resort

Dive Special

For a limited time, we're making a special offer to divers who want 5 star diving but need to combine it with a more affordable accommodation option.

The result is a once in a lifetime opportunity to dive with the world famous Cousteau L'Aventure team in the marine reserve around Savusavu and at Namena Island at a cost of only US$ 1150.

Diving what Cousteau has called 'the soft coral capital of the world' is a wondrous experience. There's easy access to a wide variety of sites: shallow reefs with spectacular plate corals, coral pinnacles topped with clouds of purple anthias and damsel fish, deeper reefs with steep walls dropping away to 800 feet and more where you'll see some of the larger species.

The joy of diving in Fiji lies in its clear, warm waters and the easy access to the sites; most of them are 15 – 25 minutes in a boat. It's no small wonder that the world famous Jean-Michel Cousteau has a dive base here, and have helped establish the NaSavusavu Marine Protection Park.

Accommodation is at Daku Resort, a small traditional Fijian resort which has retained all the charm and intimacy of life in the Fiji Islands and combined it with many of the requirements of modern travel – Wi-Fi, air conditioning and the privacy of your own fully equipped and serviced bure.

It's a week of diving you could not usually get at this price, and covers:

Five days of two tank diving

Seven nights accommodation

- all for only US$1148 p.p. double occupancy*

A single supplement of US$240 applies.

Airport and diving transfers are included. Price does not include airfares or meals.

Unforgettable diving at unbeatable prices.

(Offer must be booked by June 30th 2012)
